About Satyawati College (Evening)

The college takes its name after Behan Satyawati (1907-1945), the immortal freedom fighter of Delhi, remembered for her dedication to various patriotic missions. Established in 1973, the college currently has over 2400 students. Over the years, our students in the evening college have successfully combined vocational pursuits and other skill developing activities in the first half of the day with undergraduate study in the second half. Well, utilized time ensures maximum benefits for our students who aim to develop themselves for a complex, competitive world. The college promotes a stimulating environment for all round development to enable students to evolve as well balanced, socially sensitized human beings.

Concept Note

"From Campus to Community: Women Leading Campaigns Within and Beyond Academia" is a national seminar that aims to explore the vital role that women in academia play as agents of change, both within academic spaces and in broader societal contexts. Women are at the forefront of social, political, and environmental campaigns, using their academic platforms and research to lead initiatives that drive meaningful change.

The event seeks to amplify the voices of women who are not only excelling in academia but also translating their knowledge and expertise into advocacy, community development, and activism. It seeks to highlight their contributions, challenges, and the strategies they employ to bridge the gap between scholarly work and real-world impact.

This seminar is being conducted in cooperation with the ongoing major research project of the ICSSR, entitled "Student Community Engagement Initiatives in Swachh Bharat Abhiyan: Environment and Sustainability Campaigns in Higher Education Institutions". The collaboration will allow for a meaningful discussion of the project's concepts and outcomes, providing valuable insights into how student engagement can enhance community participation and contribute to sustainable development.

Objective

The primary objective of this seminar is to bring together women leaders in academia, activists, policymakers, students, and professionals to discuss the intersection between education, advocacy, and activism. It will provide a platform for sharing stories, strategies, and best practices for empowering women to lead campaigns that make an impact both within campus settings and beyond into the wider community. The event will also foster networking, mentorship, and collaborative opportunities to strengthen the global movement for gender equity and social justice.

Call For Abstracts

We invite researchers, scholars, and practitioners to submit abstracts that engage with the core themes of the seminar. Submissions should contribute to a deeper understanding of the intersections between sustainable development, community participation, and empowerment. We particularly welcome interdisciplinary approaches that integrate theoretical perspectives with case studies or empirical research.
